The Twitch Name Guide for 2026

A good Twitch name is easy to say on stream, easy to spell in chat and fits the content you make. This guide covers the Twitch username rules, the six username styles, name ideas by content theme, five checks before you claim a name and a page to shortlist your favourites.

Twitch username rules

1. 4 to 25 characters. Shorter names are easier to remember, but every name must have at least 4 characters.
2. Letters, numbers and underscores only. No spaces, dots, dashes or emoji. Use CamelCase or one underscore to split two words.
3. Change it once every 60 days. You can change your Twitch username later, but pick one you will be happy with for a long time.
4. Check it on Twitch. Visit twitch.tv/ followed by the name, or try it when you sign up, to see if someone already has it.

Five checks before you claim a name

1. Say it out loud. Viewers will shout it out and other streamers will say it in raids. It should be easy to say.
2. Spell it from memory. If a friend has to ask how to spell it, drop the extra letters or numbers.
3. Read it in chat. Write it in lowercase, as chat and links often show it. Make sure no odd word hides inside it.
4. Check it on Twitch. Open twitch.tv with the name. If a channel comes up, the name is taken.
5. Check your other platforms. Use the same name on YouTube, TikTok and Instagram so viewers can find you everywhere.
